Two-day seminar – fully catered

The ECT4Health Acute Deteriorating Patient Seminar is a two-day program which overviews the assessment and management of patients with a range of presentations that represent acute deterioration. Throughout the seminar we discuss physiology, assessment and management of patients with surgical and medical problems.

It is inevitable that we care for people who deteriorate, nurses need to be a step ahead and recognise the subtle signs of deterioration. This seminar is jam packed with so much that you'll wonder why you didn't do it earlier!

Content includes:

- Patient assessment – in trauma
- Sepsis and fever recognition
- Hypoxia and respiratory failure, asthma and pneumonia
- Altered levels of conscious, GCS, hypoglycaemia and strokes
- Shock and the different types, and management
